MANAGEMENT OF MANIACS.-An eminent medical man of Philadelphia was at one time a visiting physician at a lunatic asylum, near that city, and one morning, after going his rounds among the patients of the institution, the doctor strolled up stairs into the top gallery of the large rotunda of the building .-While absorbed in the view from his high elevation, a robust mad man, who had eluded his keepers, came suddenly upon the doctor, to his no little astonishment and bodily fear .-But, keeping perfectly cool, he bade the maniac "good day," and was turning about to go down sairs. "No, you don't," said the man, clutching the doctor firmly as a vice, "I want you to show me something; they say you do everything; cut off heads, legs, and arms; put them together, take a man apart, and mend him up as good as eyer; and I know you can, too, but I want you to jump down this hole (the opening of the rotunda, surrounded by the long, spiral stairway,) away on the pave-ment. Come on, do it you must!" And the fellow exerted himself to drag the doctor up to the railing, to which the poor doctor clung with the tenacity of a tick. The moment was one of peril to the doctor, but his presence of usind completely floored his antagonist. "It would be very hard for me to jump down, there, sir," said the doctor; but I can do a greater feat than that for you, if you wish to see me try." "Can you, eh, old fellow? Weil, try it. What is it?" "Why sir, I will go down there to the bottom, and with one spring sir, I'll jump clear up here." "Ha! ha! laughed the maniac; "that would be worth seeing; go down, doctor, and jump up—I'll catch you when you come up." The doctor lost no time in going dow and sending up the keepers who nabbed the poor deluded man.

COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE, Alexandria, November 29, 1871. George Kephart vs. Mary J. Dixon, Executrix of Turner Dixon, deceased. In chancery. In the Circuit Court for the city of Alexandria. [Extract from Decree.]
"The Court doth adjudge, order and decree that one of the commissioners of this Court do inquire into and ascertain what estate, real and personal, Turner Dixon died seized and possessed of, and the character and value of the same: and do also ascertain the liens on said real estate, their amount and respective priorities; and do also take an account of the claim of the complainant against the estate of Turner Dixon, deceased, and of the claims of such other creditors of Turner Dixon, deceased, as may come in and prove the same before him; and do also state and settle the account of Mary J. Dixon, Executrix of Turner Dixon, deceased; and do also inquire into and ascertain any and all such matters and things as any of the parties to this suit may desire, and which he may deem pertinent to the issue."

Subsequently the undersigned was appointed a special commissioner to execute the decree of which the foregoing is an extract. All persons interested in the above-named suit will take notice that I have appointed the 9th day of January, 1872, at 10 o'clock a.m., at my office, No. 91 King street, Alexandria, Va., to execute the above decree at which time and place you are above decree, at which time and place you are required to attend.
